CORPORATE VOLUNTEERING IN SWISS PARKS

Team building events with a sustainable impact on nature

Your team building event in nature

Protecting natural resources is a great source of inspiration for corporate activities. A growing number of companies are committed to preserve the environment and do so through their volunteering programmes. You can do it too: during a day, work for the environment with your staff and, at the same time, develop their team spirit. To this end, Swiss parks created specific tailor-made programmes in Switzerland's most beautiful natural and cultural landscapes.

The day's activities include a park discovery, encounters with local inhabitants and delicious local specialities. Your team gets valuable information on habitat, wildlife and flora under professional guidance and their safety is guaranteed. No prior knowledge is needed.

A different working day

Activities take place in all weather conditions depending on the park and season. Here are few examples:

- Clear an alpine meadow or a marsh
- Plant, maintain and cut hedgerows
- Clear and enhance the edge of a wood
- Pile up branches and stones
- Renovate a dry stone wall
- Discard cut wood
- Create a pond
- Clean a stream
- Pull out invasive plants (neophyte plants)

Facts and figures

- Time of year: Mai to September
- Duration: 1 to 3 days
- Participants: 10 to 30 people
- Programme: tailor-made

Swiss parks

The most ancient natural and cultural landscapes can be found in the Swiss parks. They form a patchwork of largely intact habitats which are either completely natural or have been transformed by mankind in a way that respects nature. The parks main mission consists in protecting these landscapes and their special beauty, promote sustainable economic activities and give visitors an amazing experience.

Your corporate volunteering programme provides direct support to the parks and helps them maintain and promote their precious landscapes.
